Hey [FirstName]

We serve others. That's one of our core values at Faith Promise. Why? Mostly, it's because of the example that Jesus, himself, set for us.

There's a story in John 13 about something Jesus did that was so shocking to his disciples that they were embarrassed by it. You may have heard it. It's the recounting of the time that Jesus washed his disciple's feet.

To you and me it just seems like a weird thing to do. Why would he wash their feet? Well, in those days it was customary for the lowest servant to wash your feet when you entered a place as a guest, usually for a meal. People's feet were often filthy from walking everywhere they went.

Just before the last supper Jesus knelt down and began to take the place of the lowest servant and washed his disciple's feet. This act of service shows us what it really means to be a follower of Jesus.

As followers we are meant to emulate Jesus. This story reinforces something that Jesus said in Matthew 20. He told us that to be the greatest you must become a servant. Even Jesus himself did not come to Earth to be served but to serve others and even to give his life for us all.

These lessons might seem extreme, but it shows just how much value Jesus places on serving others. Because of his example we too find a place to become a servant. It's counterintuitive but that's how the kingdom of God works!

We can serve others just about anytime and anywhere. We should never limit ourselves to serving just at church or just while we're on a mission trip. We should look for opportunities to serve others.

One way to start serving is to find a place, right here. When you serve at Faith Promise you're contributing to the hope and life change that Jesus brings to those that come in the doors. Whatever your gifts are, whether its singing or playing an instrument, teaching and loving kids, or just holding open a door and smiling while you greet someone, there is a place for you to serve here.
